About Dubai

Dubai has emerged as a global city and business hub of the Middle East. Dubai was ranked 44th among the world's best financial cities and the world's 27th richest city in 2012. It is also an international financial centre and has been ranked 37th within the top 50 global financial cities and 1st within the Middle East. The city of Dubai is located on the emirate's northern coastline and heads up the Dubai-Sharjah-Ajman metropolitan area. The emirate of Dubai shares borders with Abu Dhabi in the south, Sharjah in the northeast, and the Sultanate of Oman in the southeast.

Cancer, which is now the third leading cause of death in the UAE (after cardiovascular disease and injury) causing 10% of all deaths in 2010 and 16% of all deaths in the emirate of Abu Dhabi during the same year. The incidence of all cancers is projected to double by 2020, primarily due to ageing and also possibly due to increased exposure to risk factors for cancer. Approximately 12.7 million cancer cases and 7.6 million cancer deaths are estimated to have occurred in 2008; of these, 56% of the cases and 64% of the deaths occurred in the economically developing world.
