About Toronto

Why Toronto: Toronto is Canada's largest city, the fourth largest in North America, and home to a diverse population of about 2.8 million people. It's a global center for business, finance, arts and culture and is consistently ranked one of the world's most livable cities. When it comes to the standard list of accoutrements that make a city ideal for meetings, Toronto has all the boxes checked—a central location, plenty of accommodations, a walkable downtown, flexible meeting venues, great weather, etc. But when it really comes down to it, meetings and conventions only take up a small portion of the day.

Located in Southern Ontario on the northwestern shore of Lake Ontario, Toronto is situated on a broad sloping plateau intersected by an extensive network of rivers, deep ravines, and urban forest. It anchors the Golden Horseshoe, a densely populated region surrounding the western end of Lake Ontario that is home to 8.7 million people, or around 26% of the entire population of Canada. The demographics of Toronto make it one of the world's most diverse cities, with about 50% of residents having been born in a country other than Canada, and over 200 distinct ethnic origins represented among its inhabitants. The vastly international population of the city reflects its current and historical role as an important destination for immigrants to Canada. While English is the primary language spoken by the majority of Torontonians, there are over 160 different languages spoken in the city.

The National Galleries of Toronto: CN Tower, Royal Ontario Museum, Casa Loma, Hockey Hall of Fame, Art Gallery of Ontario, Ripley's Aquarium of Canada, Toronto Islands, Ontario Science Centre, Toronto Eaton Centre, Bata Shoe Museum.
