About Brussels

Brussels, the fortuitous capital of Europe is a hidden architectural treasure and the world capital of chocolates and pralines. It has grown remarkably from a trifling rural settlement on the banks of river Senne to an ultra-modern financially important city and a major center for European and International politics with headquarters for all major EU administrative institutions, besides NATO is also headquartered in Brussels. Brussels is sometimes referred to as the defacto capital of the European Union. Traditionally a Dutch-speaking region, Brussels had undergone a language shift to French in the late 19th century. Today, Brussels is a bilingual city with French being the major language and Dutch being the second language. Brussels is derivative of old Dutch, Broekzele, translating to Marsh(Broek) and Home (zele)or, home in the marsh. The identity of Brussels is its rich folklore, culture and traditions.

Brussels is a hidden architectural treasure with diversified architectural styles. It has architecture in Ancient, Gothic, Baroque, Louis XIV, Medieval and ultra-modern buildings to eco-sustainable buildings of recent times. First walls of Brussels were constructed when fortification of city started, and now, only few portions of the first city walls can be seen. While the only remaining portion from the second walls survived to the present day, and it is the Halle Gate. The other city attractions are the UNESCO World Heritage Site- The Grand Place, 15th century Town, the Neo-Gothic Breadhouse, the Guilds of Brussels, The Manneken Pis, Jeanneke Pis, Grand Place-Grote Markt, Parc du Cinquantenaire-Jubelpark, Atomium, Palais de Justice/Justitiepaleis, Mini-Europe and Statue of Europe, and numerous museums- Royal Museum for Art and History, The Cinquantenaire Museum, Museums of Far East, Belgium Historical Museum, Natural Sciences Museum of Belgium, The Horta Museum, Belgian Comic Strip Center, Musical Instruments Museum, Royal Museum of Belgian Army, Museums and Workshops of Chocolates and Pralines, Cantillon Brewery, and BrewSpot. You can also ride in Horse-drawn carriages and look at the city from a different perspective.
