New Zealand is basically an island Nation in the south west pacific ocean and is also known as the Land of the Kiwis. It is basically a developed country with a stable market economy and is currently ranking high in International comparisons of national performance, such as health, education, economic freedom and quality of life. This country expends a lot in the fields of science and technologies, education, healthcare as well as politics. And this is one of the reasons why there are lots of conferences and events that are going on in the country on a daily basis. Now these conferences also serve as a medium which connects this island country to the rest of the world.

Due to its isolation New Zealand developed a distinctive biodiversity of animal, fungal and Plant life. English is the predominant language of New Zealand. The country's economy was historically dominated by the export of wool, but exports of dairy products, meat, and wine, along with tourism, are more significant today. The reason that many people enjoy going to New Zealand is because of its biodiversity. There are a number of plants, animals, and fungi that reside throughout the country, mainly because of the fact that there were no humans on the island until 1250 AD.

The city is categorized as a Beta + World City because of its significance in trade, the arts, and literacy. The University of Auckland, established in 1883, is the largest university in New Zealand. Auckland's leading light such as the Art Gallery, the Harbour Bridge, the Sky Tower, and many museums, recreation ground, restaurants, and theatres are significant exploration attractions. Auckland Airport handles around one million international passengers a month. Despite being one of the most expensive cities in the world, Auckland is ranked third on the 2016 Mercer Quality of Living Survey, making it one of the most habitable cities.
