Dear All,

We are glad to announce the ICSMPMH2019 to be held in October 25-26, 2019 Rome, Italy organized by Ascend Meetings.

This conference aims to find innovative synergies of knowledge in the field of Neonatal, Child and Maternal Health by utilizing the valuable experience of professors, experts, academics, entrepreneurs, policy makers, association directors, managers, CEOs and scientific institutions of the world in order to provide an ideal opportunity for information exchange. Since the theme is “To fostering innovations and discoveries to improve our understanding of the causes and treatments of disorders that affect children” a sensitive one at a global scale, much can be achieved via this event in terms of concrete actionplans and strategies.

With a dynamic learning structure, world’s best eminent speaker lineup, and an unparalleled platform for networking with peers, ICSMPMH2019 is unlike any other industry event!

We know that attending conferences means investing your valuable time out of the office and out-of-pocket expenses, but if you can attend this conference, it repays more on what you spent. That’s what we assures our attendees!

With Best Regards,

Alan Smith | Program Director

Join our Scientific Community

The quest for new knowledge has been a driving force for centuries. Scientific conferences are important for bridging communities and helping us all to fill in the knowledge gaps. Face-to-face meetings provide an excellent opportunity to bring people together with different views and advance a field of study and they give you the chance to expand your knowledge base by learning what is going outside of your own region and meeting collaborators from around the world.

Conferences are a big part of scientists' lives. They provide an important forum to bring a research community together and serve as a platform to disseminate knowledge and forge collaborations. Getting together to exchange ideas, forge collaborations, and disseminate knowledge is a long-standing tradition of scientific communities.

The globalization of science brings many stakeholders from diverse regions of the world to the table, and with this comes a need to find a common meeting ground to discuss emerging science.

Ascend Meetings cordially seek your nomination to be a part of this knowledge drenched conference.

We would like to request you join our scientific community now>>

Venue and Hospitality

About Rome: The city that deserves your undivided attention

Rome is not only the capital of Italy but also one of the most prominent UNESCO World Heritage sites in the entire world. Be it the Vatican City or the Roman Empire, the Colosseum or the Seven hills, everything that is historical and cultural in Italy finds a spot in Rome.

Rome, Italy's largest city, counts itself among Europe's most visited destinations. Also known as the Eternal City, the metropolis is where Julius Caesar lived and died, and where the Pope currently lives.

A great number of tourists are attracted to Rome by its Alpine and Mediterranean scenery, sunny climate, archaeological remains, medieval and Baroque churches, Renaissance towns and palaces, painting, sculpture, and famous opera houses. Each province of Italy has a Board of Tourism; in addition, there are more than 300 supplemental listings for further information in Rome.

Today, it is a cosmopolitan metropolis which is home to both ancient ruins and a vibrant contemporary culture. With art galleries, trendy bars and shops selling the latest fashions, modern Rome shows that the city is much more than its past.

For those visiting the city, more than 2,500 years of spectacular history awaits at nearly every turn. Rome is easily accessible from all over the world. Its principal airport, Fiumicino-Leonardo da Vinci International Airport, is served by several international airlines offering direct and connecting flights to all major parts of the globe. The city is also a principal railway node and has an extensive motorway network, which proves advantageous for business guests as they can get to their event site in a short time.
