National Seminar on

Education for Sustainable Development (ESD)

15th February 2020

PROLOGUE

“Education can, and must, contribute to a new vision of sustainable global development.”(UNESCO, 2015)

Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) has to be understood as an integral part of quality education, inherent in the concept of lifelong learning. ESD provides an education that matters and is truly relevant to every learner in the light of today's challenges.

Education for Sustainable Development is holistic and transformational education that addresses learning content and outcomes, pedagogy and the learning environment. Thus, ESD does not only integrate contents such as climate change, poverty and sustainable consumption into the curriculum; it also creates interactive, learner-centered teaching and learning settings. What ESD requires is a shift from teaching to learning. It asks for an action-oriented, transformative pedagogy, which supports self-directed learning, participation and collaboration, problem-orientation, interdisciplinary approach and the linking of formal and informal learning. Only such pedagogical approaches make possible the development of the key competencies needed for promoting sustainable development. With the introduction of the New Education Policy 2019, India would like to train our youth to face the global challenges and contribute their best to the society.

About the Seminar

All educational institutions from preschool to higher education and in non-formal and informal education can and should consider it their responsibility to deal intensively with matters of sustainable development and to foster the development of sustainability competencies.

The Centre for Teacher Education, a unit of Institute of Professional Excellence & Management (ISO9001:2015 Certified and NAAC accredited) is organizing a one day National Seminar on 'Education for Sustainable Development (ESD)' on 15th February 2020

The proposed Seminar aims at integrating the principles and practices of sustainable development into all aspects of education and learning. It also aims to encourage changes in knowledge, values and attitudes with the vision of enabling a more sustainable and just society for all. The Seminar is an effort to provide a forum for Educationists, Teacher Educators, Research Scholars, and Teachers to come together for exchange of views, ideas and experiences and to deliberate upon various issues related to Education for sustainable Development.

Sub-Themes

The Seminar would consider Papers pertaining to the theme “Education for Sustainable Development (ESD)”. However, the following Sub-themes are being given to help the participants in preparing their papers:-
